AMERICAN FRUIT EVAPORATOR!

The most practical and reliable Fruit Evaporator made. It gives unobstructed hot air currents ABOVE and BELOW all fruit, thus insuring evenness of drying and no spoiled fruit. Beware of infringements. THE AMERICAN is pre-eminently the fruit-raisers' machine. Its sizes grade from domestic to manufacturing wants. It makes the highest quality of work with ordinary care in handling. There is no need of making anything else. Though we approve a slight use of sulphur, the AMERICAN is specially adapted for highest grade in unbleached work. It places fresh cut fruit first in highest and dryest heat; cures cut surfaces at once and keeps them dry, thereby setting and making permanent the color, and also thereby, as in broiling steaks, securing the highest quality in product. We place our experience in evaporating at the disposal of our customers. In some cases this gratuitous service is of more value than prices paid us for evaporators. Sold by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D.,
M. C. P. S. O.
Graduate of Victoria College, Toronto, Ontario; member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario; for three years Associate Phy-sician of the Chicago and Cincinnati Throat and Lung Institutes; for fifteen years, and still, proprietor of the Detroit Throat and Lung Institute; also Licentiate Physician in and for the State of Michigan, and for several years Proprietor of the Ontario Pulmonary Institute and Health Resort at Toronto, Ontario. Over 60,000 cases treated by us during the past nineteen years.

To those who have what they are pleased to call "lingering colds," we would say unhesitatingly, and if possible with a voice that would waken all from that pleasing delusion, that without prompt and earnest efforts in a rational and proper manner, you will soon follow those who have found release from their sufferings in that "long sleep which knows no waking."

You have been conscious, but almost afraid to confess the fact, and unwilling to admit it to yourselves, that the slight irritation of the throat, the paroxysms of nasal catarrh, the symptoms of a bronchial inflammation of a few weeks or months ago, which you confidently believed would "wear off," had become firmly established, and in most certainly, and by degrees, more or less rapidly and with fatal precision and unrelenting grasp, advancing to hopeless consumption. You may object to and shrink from the frank statement by your medical adviser; you may deny the truthful conviction which forces itself upon your observation and reason, but the plain fact d vastat of flattering assurances that can only close you of your life itself, is that these throat disease, the bronchial inflammations and other constitutional causes are toiling against you with unerring certainty, and the antagonistic so pleasant in the ear—that aid will be well by-and-bye, are the most delusive and cruel.

You do not want to stupefy the senses with opiates, nor take into the stomach drugs that will forever destroy its tone and impair its digestion. You do not want merely palliative treatment to conduct and lull you in fancied security to the very brink of the grave; for it is useless to conceal the fact from yourself or those who regard your cases with trembling solicitude and painful anxiety, that the effects of continued inflammation and irritation have had their effect upon you; the great and rapid evolution of the blood cells, that, with the cleansing of vegetable life, is peculiarly fatal to consumptives. These causes of unease have also had their effect upon the invalid as well as upon the patient, and it is time to just now stop and reflect upon the nature and progress of your disease, and the remedial measures you have employed, and, if possible, clearly ascertain if there is a way open to you by which you may escape the dreadful fate impending.

We say, without hesitation, that the greater number of pulmonary diseases can be cured.

Let it be known that we are bound in fetters of bigotry, which precludes investigation, or who is the ability, or are too indolent to keep pace with medical science of the present time. Old musty volumes may tell you, and there are those who will echo the dogma, that consumption cannot be cured, but it is as false as it is cruel. I am prepared to prove the affirmed of this terrible malady in direct communication with you in this or any city, and in various sections of the country, who have been cured of consumption, and to prove by the affidavits of the honest inquirer of the truth, both in and out of the profession, that pronounced tubercular consumption in an advanced stage—some among them having the superficial air of others the tubercular type of consumption. These cases were cured by opiates, by expectorants, by the torture of blisters, by bleeding, nor by bleeding, nor by any of the recognized ways of palliating disease. They were cured by local and constitutional measures combined. Topical medications and general treatment both performed good service. The stomach and digestive organs were restored to normal condition for assimilating the body, and from unctated, cadaverous, thin blooded and frail-ple creatures, they soon possessed vital powers to expand the glorious, Mediated inhabitants, abomination, and other means developed by medical science and research, have all been called in requisition, and to-day, those persons are living and well, participating in the active duties and pleasures of life. We need not dilate upon theories while we are able to present the evidence of the testimony of pa-tients on restoration to a state of cases re long previously pronounced hopeless.

CONSULTATION FREE.—Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases will find me at the office fr y morning to five and examination, but if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Question List, containing a list of questions. Address

CALIFORNIA fruits for Eastern markets get another good send-off to-day in a dispatch from Chicago, embodying an interview with a prominent dealer there. This gentleman thinks that California and Florida will sweep the country of foreign oranges and lemons, and California deciduous fruits will capture the markets west of the Mississippi river.

MOR. CAPEL, in his lecture at San Francisco, remarked on the big-headedness of many of the men of that city. The remark requires an able explanation, which we rise to give. The size of San Francisco masculine heads is determined by a sliding scale. They are bigger in the morning, after a night out, than at any other time.

THE State Viticultural Society has appointed a committee to collect wines, brandies and raisins for exhibition at the Louisville (Kentucky) Fair. Hon. R. F. Del Valle, Hon. J. F. Crank and several other well known people of this county are mentioned as members. They need experience no difficulty in making a good showing for Los Angeles county.

"RETIRED by drink" is the as report which comes regarding Mrs. Emily C. Jump, once leading soprano in the Mapleson Italian Opera Company, and a brilliant pianist. She sank little by little until she lost place, friends, self-respect and self-control, and a few days ago was arrested and arraigned at the Jefferson Market Police Court, New York, charged with being a habitual drunkard.

AFFAIRS in Mexico are getting no better fast. It is stated that a loan of ten millions of dollars to the Mexican National Railway, which was in negotiation in London, has gone by the board. Mexico is unable to carry out the magnificent schemes of public improvement which she undertook, and foreign capitalists who have commenced the work must suffer. Meanwhile something is brewing—probably a revolution.

A STRANGE story comes from San José of a woman stricken with leprosy, who stopped at a hotel in that city, and tried to keep her malady a secret by covering her face with a veil, which she did not remove even at meals. She was found out and left the hotel, but went to another. When discovered in her second retreat, she went away, nobody knows whither. If this dreadful Asiatic malady is to run its course among the white people of California—and such a result seems inevitable—the authorities ought to take cognizance of it, and establish hospitals for its complete isolation. If the lazar-houses lack a full complement of Caucasian patients at first, enough lepers may be secured from the Chinese quarters to set them going.

THE community will be astonished and shocked this morning by the news of the death of Col. John F. Godfrey, which occurred at 10 o'clock last night. The fatal malady which struck him down, almost without a moment's warning, was heart disease. He was at his office all day yesterday, apparently in his usual robust health. Last evening, after chatting with his family until about the usual time for retiring, he complained of a sudden pain in the chest, which grew rapidly worse. Neighbors were called in and medical aid was summoned, but before anything could be done for him he was dead. Thus has been snatched from his very sense of usefulness one of the foremost lawyers of Los Angeles and of California. A noble, a generous soul is gone. A man who was upright in all his dealings, and who loved truth for its own sake—he was an implacable enemy to what he considered wrong and an unfailing friend to the right. Los Angeles can ill spare him. Men of his stamp are too few.

COL. JOHN F. GODFREY

Dies Suddenly at His Home, of Heart Disease.

The few citizens to whose ears it came last night were startled and shocked at hearing that Col. John F. Godfrey, one of our best known attorneys, had died suddenly at 10 o'clock at his home. He had apparently been in the robust health which marked him up to the very last. At 7 o'clock last evening he was exchanging greetings with friends upon the street, remarking that he never felt better in his life. A few moments before his death, he complained of a pain across the chest, and friends were sent for; but before they could arrive he had passed away.

Colonel Godfrey was born in Maine in 1840, and came to this city about nine years ago. His talents won rapid recognition, and his practice as a criminal lawyer has amounted to about $10,000 a year. He was known throughout the State, universally respected, and will be widely missed. He leaves a wife and five children.

A Strange Omission.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: His Honor the Mayor gracefully introduced Colonel Gay Saturday night by calling attention to the numerous intellectual treats we, and especially he (the Mayor) had enjoyed lately in the way of lectures, public addresses, etc. As he named them over one after another there were some in the audience who expected that the next one that he would mention as having given him the most soul-satisfying delight would have been that "way-up" address of Dr. O'Donnell, at which his Honor "assisted." But to the general disappointment, he did not even mention it. Why he should have entirely omitted all mention in his list of late lectures of note one of the most notable, where there were present 3000 curiosity seekers, and he himself was on the platform and at the close saluted the orator, passes comprehension. It is to be hoped that this lapse of memory on the part of his Honor was not an intentional slight to Dr. O'D., but was purely an oversight. CONSISTENCY.

READY TO STRIKE.

The Cheyennes Sullen and Threatening.

TWO SETTLEMENTS AT THEIR MERCY.

A Condition of Breathless Suspense in Colorado—The Only Safety is in Disarming the Cheyennes.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

WICHITA, KS., June 29.—Dispatches Sunday morning and assurances of the Department at Washington to the contrary notwithstanding; excitement is at a fever heat at Reno and Darlington in the Colorado, and the attitude of the Cheyennes is very threatening. A special to the Eagle of Saturday says: "We went to see some pretended friendly Indians on Sunday and their grunts of disapproval were long and loud." The Eagle is in receipt of more specials to-day, in which it is asserted that the Indians will make a desperate fight if asked to surrender their arms. This disarming could have been successfully done under President Arthur's orders, previous to the appearance of grass this spring. Darlington and Cantonment stand at the mercy of 2000 braves. One special says the streams are rising rapidly between the agency and the fort. Few Indians are to be seen around the fort. The warriors are all gathering at a point twelve miles on the North Fork. A friendly Arapahoe brings in news that three white men, freighters, were murdered near Cantonment by Cheyenne Indians. Scouts are riding trails in all directions day and night. All rivers between the border of Caldwell and the agencies are rising. Fort Reno is under a double row of sentinels, and no Indian is allowed inside. Cantonment is sixty miles up the river, and perfectly helpless if an attack is made. There was, when the last Eagle special was sent, nine companies of troops at Reno and one in Oklahoma, which had been ordered over, but before these troops could make a move two companies would have to be sent to Cantonment and two left at the agency, which would leave but six companies for the post and the field. The Indians are superbly mounted and armed to the teeth with the best arms manufactured, and have a full supply of ammunition. Our dispatches say that there is but one way and that is to disarm the Cheyennes. As to the movement of the large body of Indians in camp on the North Fork, but little is known, as neither the agency people nor the soldiers have felt that it would be safe to attempt to find out by reconnoitering with so few troops at command.

TOO ARDENT DEVOTION.

A Polish Church Fight to the Death—A Riot.

TOLEDO, June 29.—For a long time there has been serious trouble in the Polish Catholic Church here between the priest and his followers and factions who were opposed to him. A year ago, in a row growing out of this trouble, a man was killed, and the failure to convict parties guilty of the offense stimulated the opposition which has been increasing in ferocity. A few days ago an attempt was made to blow up the church with dynamite. Yesterday the trouble culminated in a general riot, in which fire arms and all manner of weapons were freely used. Two men were killed and several injured, while quite a number of houses were partially or entirely destroyed. Up to noon to-day twelve men and five women had been placed under arrest for complicity in the riot in the Polish settlement yesterday. Several of these were slightly wounded, bearing cuts, bruises or broken fingers. The parties directly implicated in yesterday's murders are doubtless already in custody, although not yet identified. Other arrests will follow until all suspected persons have been secured. No further disturbance has taken place. The pastor of the Polish church publishes a statementin which he attributes the whole difficulty to a bitter hostility long entertained toward him and his work by the vicious and criminal element.

Murdered and Burned.

TUCSON, ARIZ., June 29.—The remains of Arvey Katz, who, in company with Pablo Soto, left this city some months ago to purchase cattle in Sonora, have at last been found. It appears that he was murdered on the second night out, in the vicinity of Arpizon, about sixty-five miles south of this place. After the murder the body was placed in the arroyo near the roadside and burned. His charred remains were identified by a bunch of keys he had on his person when he left. Soto, his companion, has not yet been found, but in all probability he was murdered. Parties have been sent to investigate the matter. The county will offer a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the murderers. The Territory will probably offer $500, and Marcus Katz, brother of the deceased, will add $1000, making $2000 in all.

A Fierce Prize Fight.

MILWAUKEE, June 29.—A fierce prize fight for $500 with small hard gloves and to the finish was fought in the town of Lake, last night, between Tom Doyle of San Francisco and Dave Jones of South Chicago. Doyle outweighed his opponent by thirty pounds, his weight being 160 pounds. Fierce fighting characterized each round to the close of the fifth, the pugilists being covered with blood. When time was called for the sixth round Jones gave up the fight, which was declared in Doyle's favor. Both men received hard punishment about the head and face. Two hundred men witnessed the fight, among them being a number of city officials.

An Infernal Machine.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—An infernal machine of rather a clumsy pattern was sent by mail to-day to S. Lem Smith, publisher of a weekly paper. It was a wooden box, about five inches square and three inches high. The word "private" on the lid of the box aroused Mr. Smith's suspicions. He opened the box cautiously and found a 44-calibre breech-loading derringer inside. It was loaded and cocked. A piece of copper wire was attached to the trigger and fastened to the lid of the box in such a way that the opening of the box could possibly have discharged the pistol. The postal authorities are investigating the matter.

The Demented Actor.

NEW YORK, June 29.—McCullough's friends fear that he will never leave Bloomingdale asylum alive. It was ascertained from excellent source that the asylum physicians had pronounced McCullough's affliction to be general paresis, a disease resulting fatally in a few months after its progress has become obvious. McCullough's friend, Captain Conner, says: "We have made as much as $65,000 in one year. He was a very liberal man, generous to a fault. When he and I were first associated together he was very much involved through his California ventures, and I think in paying up his debts a great deal of his earnings were absorbed."

Had Told the Truth.

BRODERICK, June 29.—Thomas O'Shea surrendered himself to the police this morning and stated that he had beaten his wife's brains out with a hatchet and that he was drunk at the time he committed the deed. Investigation by the police showed that O'Shea had told the truth.

Ism Khan in Rebellion.

BOMBAY, June 29.—It is reported from Cabul that Isa Khan, supported by Russian allies, has risen against Abdullah Khan. Isa Khan marched upon Khanabad and seized the treasure there valued at a million pounds sterling and belonging to the Ameer of Afghanistan.

WASHINGTON.

More Presidential Appointments—Tammany Waits on Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The President has made the following appointments: To be Receivers of Public Moneys—M. R. Cady, at Bodie, Cal.; E. K. Dalzell, at Humboldt, Cal.

A committee representing Tammany Hall, consisting of N. Houghton and Robert B. Mooney, waited upon the President to-day and urged that the organization be recognized in the appointment of either United States Marshal or District Attorney for New York City.

A TREASURY CIRCULAR.

The Secretary of the Treasury has issued a circular to customs officers directing the immediate return to the department of all unused record books at different custom-houses. The circular says: "Officers are enjoined to hereafter scrutinize requisitions, and to order only such forms, whether books or blanks, and only such quantities thereof as are absolutely necessary for the time covered by the requisitions. Not only economy in public expenditures should be considered, but the record of the office should be in keeping, and not out of proportion to the character and extent of business and the actual result obtained. Unnecessarily involved and complicated books, wherever they exist, should be discontinued, and the simplest and most direct methods consistent with accuracy, dispatch and the best interests of the Government should be introduced."

KIRBY AND A CANARD.

The statement, cabled from London on the authority of a Vienna correspondent of the Times, that the appointment of Mr. Kelly to be Minister to Austria had been withdrawn, is officially denied.

THEY WANT THE APPROPRIATION.

Representatives of various American steamship lines called on Postmaster-General Vilas to-day to reargue their claim for the distribution of the $400,000 appropriated by the last Congress for carrying mails. They report that notwithstanding the fact that the language of the Act is in the simple form of an appropriation for the purpose of carrying the mail and authorizing payment upon contract to the lowest bidder, yet, inasmuch as there is not money enough to be divided equally among the companies at the rate of fifty cents a mile, the Postmaster-General ought to advertise for bids on all the different lines, taking into consideration the different times of sailing, so that companies can compute the rate per mile and all have a share in proportion to the sailings of their lines. They stated that the companies were aiming to bid such a price for carrying mails as would give all their steamers a share in the entirely distributable the appropriation among them. The Postmaster General listened attentively to the argument, but announced that he saw no reason to change his previously expressed views on the subject. Some discussion was had as to the terms upon which the companies should continue to carry the mails. The gentlemen all expressed themselves desirous of serving the government and said they did not wish to appear in the position of refusing contumaciously to abide by the decision of the administration, but at the same time they regretted very much such a conclusion had been arrived at.

GARFIELD'S STATUE.

A marble statue of President Garfield, presented by the State of Ohio to the National Statuary Hall, was received to-day, without ceremony, in the presence of Governor Hoadley and two or three members of the committee from Ohio. They expressed themselves much pleased with the statue, and will recommend its acceptance.

MORE VACANCIES MADE.

VALLEJO, Cal., June 29.—Telegraphic orders were received from Washington by Navy Yard authorities to discharge immediately all remaining Navy Yard firemen. This order effected the discharge of Samuel Hammond, foreman of sailmakers; McWilliams, foreman of blacksmiths; M. Jones, foreman of moulders; J. W. Hounsly, foreman of coppersmiths; A. M. Street, foreman of painters makers. It is stated that no appointments will soon be made to fill these vacancies.

GENERAL GRANT.

MT. MCGREGOR, June 29.—Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning Dr. Douglas attended General Grant, cleansed his throat, painted it with cocosine, and administered the last half of the usual nightly allowance of anodyne. From that time until 5 the General was quiet. At this hour Dr. Douglas called, after which the patient required no attention until 9 o'clock, when he was aroused. Mrs. physician believes that the General will finally nine hours last night. He says that the glandular swelling outside has subsided to a minimum. The infiltration shows some disposition to extend upward on the right cheek, and less tendency to spread downward and forward upon the neck. About daylight the atmosphere, which had been oppressive through the night, became brighter. The clouds broke away and the weather continues (with the thermometer at 71 at 10 o'clock) much more favorable than yesterday.

At 1:30 o'clock General Grant had not been dressed. He had rested in his room all the morning, and was pronounced by Dr. Douglas that his throat caused him no trouble and he remained quiet in order that the case might continue. He thought, that should he be about, he would feel like interesting himself in writing, which might wear his strength and he would undoubtedly use his pen more or less, and so irritate the diseased parts. The air is cool this afternoon and favorable to the patient.

ANTI-REUTER.

The British Papers Talk of a Press Association.

LONDON, June 29.—The London newspapers have rebelled against Reuter's news agency. It appears that this agency increased the expenses of gathering news of the approaching campaign in England and the difficulties in South Africa. At a meeting of newspaper proprietors it was decided to make a stand against Reuter's demand for increased pay. Rather than pay more, they gave it to be understood that they contemplated freeing themselves from taking Reuter's news by establishing a news-gathering association of their own, similar to the American Associated Press. It cannot be ascertained that any step has been taken since this meeting, but enough has transpired to indicate that both parties will deliberate very cautiously before committing themselves to a policy which will lead to an inevitable rupture of present relations. The general opinion is that those who are best informed is that some satisfactory compromise will be reached.

SCORE ONE FOR SHARON.

He Gets a Stay of Proceedings from the Supreme Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—The Supreme Court has rendered a decision that all proceedings in the celebrated Hill-Sharon divorce case for the payment of counsel fees and alimony be stayed pending appeals. This is considered a decided victory for Ex-Senator Sharon. The opinion was rendered by Justice Sharpstein, with Rose, Myrick Thornton and McKinstry concurring. McKee dissented.

Kansas City Getting the Trade.

KANSAS CITY, June 29.—Twenty-one cars of cattle from Ashfork, Arizona, arrived here yesterday over the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad. They are the first lot of a shipment of 1,500 head and this shipment is the first in this direction from that country. Hitherto all of the cattle raised in that section have been sent to San Francisco, and although efforts have been made to induce shipment in this direction they have not been successful until recently, as the Pacific railway has always prevented that result by their lower rates.

One of Stevenson's Men.

MONTEREY, Cal., June 29.—Major John M. O'Neill, aged 62 years, died here yesterday. He was one of the few remaining members of Stevenson's regiment landing here in 1847. A post mortem which was held on account of the many differing medical opinions, showed chronic ulcer and dilation of the stomach.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 29.—A daring attempt has been made to steal a million roubles from the imperial treasury at Oamin, a town in Southern Russia. Several persons have been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the attempted robbery.

PARIS, June 27.—A report is current that typhoid fever is raging in Tonquin among the reserve troops from Marseilles.

LOGAN.

A Reception Tendered Him in Boston.

THE OPENING SHOT ON FORT CLEVELAND

"Offensive Partisans" Versus Offensive Partisans—The Crime of Having Voted the Republican Ticket.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

BOSTON, June 29.—A large number of prominent gentlemen, representing the bar, the bench, the pulpit, the platform, the counting-room and council chamber, were in attendance at a reception given to-night by the Norfolk Club to General John A. Logan at the Parker House. The guest of the evening was greeted with rounds of cheers. He referred to the debt which the West owes Massachusetts and to the influence exerted by her. In nothing was this influence more clearly and permanently imprinted upon the nation than in the matter of education. The wisdom of our course in reference to the elevation of the reduced race is fully indorsed in the minds of reasonable men. Speaking of reforms General Logan said: "In my opinion, reforms which will guarantee personal rights will be of more advantage to the country than transporting the frauds of the government from sub-treasuries of the United States to banks." Of civil service reform he said: "It is the child of the Republican party, but unfortunately has been put out to nurse with a stranger, and if not dead now looks sick unto death." The law is being construed to the effect that a person who voted the Republican ticket at the last election committed a crime against the peace and dignity of the Democratic party—an offense heretofore unknown to law or to politics, to-wit: offensive partisanship. Mr. Chairman an 'offensive partisan' is a Republican—an offensive partisan is a Democrat, and is to be spared as a reward for his political zeal. His appointment will not improve the public service, I fancy, but is made for partisan reasons only. The Democratic party is diligently searching for rascals, with the purpose of turning them out, as they should have done had they been on hand. But while they have been searching for rascals, they have found only 'offensive partisans,' and have instantly turned them out. The Republican party has had undisputed leadership for the past twenty-four years. Its principles are given all their proper share and entirely distributable the appropriation among them. The Postmaster General listened attentively to the argument, but announced that he saw no reason to change his previously expressed views on the subject. Some discussion was had as to the terms upon which the companies should continue to carry the mails. The gentlemen all expressed themselves desirous of serving the government and said they did not wish to appear in the position of refusing contumaciously to abide by the decision of the administration, but at the same time they regretted very much such a conclusion had been arrived at.

Comparative Freight Rates.

One of our enterprising business houses, Schoder, Johnston & Co., has just had printed a circular showing the comparative freight rates now in force on merchandise between San Francisco and certain important points in Arizona and New Mexico, and between Los Angeles and the same points. The table is a convenient and instructive one for the use of buyers, sellers, shippers and others, and conveys in small space more practical information than is frequently found in several pages of trade-pamphlets or immigration circulars. Following is the table:

COMPARATIVE FREIGHT RATES.

	1st. Cl.	2d Cl.	3d Cl.	4th Cl.	5th Cl.
To Yuma.
San Francisco	$2 25	$2 00	$1 75	$1 50	$1 25
Los Angeles	2 25	2 00	1 75	1 50	1 25
To Maricopa, Tucson and Casa Grande.

NOTE.—Hardware belongs in 2d class; bar, boiler and T iron in 3d class; 4th class—car load lots, 5th class. Hoop, sheet or galvanized iron released, 4th class—car load lots, 5th class. Nuts, bolts, rivets, washers, strap hinges, staples and hooks, horse and mule shoes, 4th class. Wagon material, sawed or turned, 4th class—same unit, 3d class. Pumps, hand and steam, 1st class. Iron axles, 3d class. Cumberland coal, 4th class—car lots, Yuma, Maricopa, Casa Grande and Tucson, 75 cents. Hay and manure forks, hoes, shovels and spades, 2d class.

Subject to such changes as the transportation companies may make from time to time.

The notable point in the above for interior purchasers is obvious. Los Angeles is the better point for them to make purchases—better by just the amount of the difference in freight rates shown in the table—assuming that our wholesale merchants can compete with those of San Francisco in prices of goods bought in a common Eastern market, which we believe to be true.

The comparative rates of freight to these several points, based upon relative mileage from San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, would form the subject for an interesting calculation, the working out of which would show the difference between the cost of long hauls and short hauls—a subject which is engaging the attention of railroad commissions and legislators. The TIMES will revert to it at another time.

The Outlook for 1885.

In support of its prediction that the year 1885 will prove a "fairly prosperous" one for California, the San Francisco Chronicle gives the following figures and reasons: "We shall not raise much over 30,000,000 bushels of wheat, but the farmers will get more for it. We shall have a very large crop of fruit, and in all probability a good yield of wine, notwithstanding the frost of May. Fruit is already coming freely into market. The mining outlook is very promising. Quite a number of mines which were abandoned long ago are being worked again with excellent results, and new veins are being discovered, especially in counties which were not great producers in the days of the boom—such as San Bernardino, Shasta, Siskiyou, Mono and Inyo. The total exports of San Francisco by sea, for the first five months of the calendar year were $18,023,223, as against $14,736,383 during the same period last year, showing an increase of $3,286,840, over 20 per cent; and the railway traffic for April does not compare so badly with last year, as the following table shows:

	Central Pounds.	Southern Pounds.	Both routes Pounds.
April, 1884	13,908,820	10,049,700	23,958,520
April, 1885	13,609,800	11,092,000	24,102,100

"Adding the tonnage of the two routes together, there is an increase this year of 184,100 pounds carried."

It is difficult, at this period in the season, to make any estimate of the fruit crop that would be even approximately correct in its money value; but as a vast number of new orchards and vineyards have come into bearing this year, it is perfectly safe to calculate on a large increase in the total product over last year. This may even be great enough to offset the shortage in the grain crop. The fruit problem in California is now more a question of handling than of production. If our producers can get their surplus into eastern and foreign markets at a cost for transportation that will leave them a fair margin of profit, the aggregate of the profits from this branch of production will be something immense for California.

THE officer in command of the squad which captured Jefferson Davis, hoop-skirt and all, has been removed from the collectorship of internal revenue at Madison, Wisconsin, as "an offensive partisan." The fine Italian hand of the master of Beauvoir may possibly be recognized in the act. It would at least be interesting to learn who preferred the charges, and what they were.

A SERVICE OF PATRIOTISM.

Interesting Occasion at the Grand Opera House, Sunday.

REV. ELI FAY'S PERTINENT DISCOURSE.

The Love of Country—Why Our Republic is the World's Mecca—Our Duties and Dangers—Our Privileges and Responsibilities.

The "Service of Patriotism," under the direction of Rev. Eli Fay, D. D., Ph. D., called out a congregation which filled the Grand Opera House, Sunday forenoon. The stage was very handsomely decorated with flowers and the national colors. The programme already published by the TIMES was rendered well throughout. Dr. Fay's discourse was thoughtful and strong, and struck right home to every hearer. It carried a practical religion, of whose preaching and practice the country cannot get too much. Following is as detailed an epitome of the discourse as our space will allow:

Isaiah xlii, 12: "I will make a man more precious than fine gold." Matthew v, 6: "Thy kingdom come."

Few have not experienced a thrill of delight as on their return after an absence from home the dear spot again met their eye, and numberless objects revived sacred memories. How precious is a home, the nursery and resting place of the heart; the retreat in which we take refuge from the care and friction of the great outside world! The homes of others may be much better than ours, but still they are not ours. Ours may be simple and plain; and the place in which we have gathered around even a frugal board, the place where we have found a common home-altar, where the idols of the heart accumulate, the unfolding of life is witnessed, the song of childhood is heard, the blessed immunity of the firesides is enjoyed, where we suffer and hope and plan and pray together—it is not simply a poetic idea, it is true to actual, profound experience that in all the wide world there is no place like home. Our partiality for our own is entirely creditable. Cosmopolitan in a true sense, well-wishers of the entire race, we form local attachments and have special personal interests; and the inexpressible sacredness of home and family, and all the stimulus and restraint of individual enterprise spring therefrom.

The same is true of our native land. In a sense, all nations are one, and their interests identical. But a nation, like a family, has interests and attachments of its own; ambition, pride, consciousness of responsibility; even tastes and idiosyncrasies, with which outside interference were impertinent. In our national domain, our scenery, our cities and towns, our distinguishing national principles and aims, and even our strifes, in all our flag symbolisms, and even in our flag itself, we have and ought to have an interest as profound as to take in an emergency the form of a patriotic passion, a holy love. When a American has seen the difference between the practical workings of a monarchy and a republic, between the conditions of their peoples, the poverty and weakness and foreshadowed fate of the ancient civilizations of the Old World, he appreciates as never before the freshness, vigor, flexibility, originality of our national life and the uniqueness and extent of our personal and political freedom. It is not strange that thousands of foreign-born become the most enthusiastic admirers of our institutions, the most patriotic American citizens. Wm. H. Seward, on his return from abroad, said that as he entered New York harbor he felt like kneeling and devoutly thanking God that his home was in this New World, whose original type of civilization was not an inheritance, but a factor in raising and enlightening the darkest corners of the earth; and that appreciation and love of his native land had been greatly intensified by contrasts seen abroad. At the close of our civil war, it was reported that thousands of Southern people, including large numbers of Confederate soldiers, hailed with joy the return of the old flag, some actually kissing it and baptizing it with tears. Why is this intense partiality for our own country? Grant that to a certain extent patriotism is innate; yet millions born in other lands, with the same love of a grand and matured personality, and therefore to any one, even a "crowned head," who would interfere with his intellectual, moral, spiritual or personal liberty, he has a right to cry: "Hands off! Usurper, I also am a man!"

"All men are created free and equal," that is, equal before the law, in the sacredness of their personality and their title to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That is a protest against the divine right of kings, the right of any man to rule his equals without their consent and to be reverenced as a human god. It is a protest against all orders of nobility, the setting up of artificial distinctions on which, irrespective of personal worth, men might claim exclusive consideration.

Our fathers wisely decided that these relics of a barbarous age were inimical to the true republican rules, viz.: that no man has an inherent right to rule other men; that as in that respect, all men stand on a common level, each man has a right to a voice in shaping the government under which he is to live; that true, intelligent, self-respecting, self-governing manhood is itself the highest order of nobility, and that fixed social castes are repugnant to free institutions.

Possibly other republics have asserted with equal emphasis these great principles, but no other has approached us in the attempt to embody them not only in law, but also in the institutions and customs of the country. We have not done all that we should, but we have accomplished much. A government for the people must be a government by the people. But a government by the people implies that the people must understand the issues involved in their government, and be patriotically and conscientiously disposed to do the right. A republic of ignoramuses or desperadoes would soon go to destruction. As in every family of children, for ignorant, selfish, hot-blooded, degraded people, force is better than freedom. A man's fitness to be a citizen of a republic is shown in his ability to govern himself.

If you were asked to take stock in a colony whose other stockholders were selfish, indolent, reckless and untrustworthy, you would peremptorily decline, knowing that such business partners would ruin the concern. Many a government has gone to destruction through the ignorance and corruption of its people. * * * If the mass of American voters cannot be trained to a full appreciation of their grave responsibilities and high prerogatives, there is just ground for serious apprehension. We believe that that the transcendent ideal is so practicable as to render secure the institutions of our country. We do not suppose that every man will become a statesman or philosopher, but believe that individual self-respect and self-government may also be made so contagious, that public opinion may be so educated as ultimately so to raise the standard of citizenship that the average man, educated as a sovereign, clothed with authority as a sovereign, known in law as a sovereign, will finally respect himself as a sovereign. Then our Republic will be the most stable government on earth. As showing the necessity for such intelligence, conscientiousness and high manliness among the masses, under a republican government exigencies may arise in which one man may exercise a power no monarch would presume to wield. Some forty years ago, in one of the wards of the city of New York, a man was nominated for the State Assembly by a majority of one, elected by a majority of one, and in a Legislature that on strict party lines was hopelessly, and without him evenly, divided on most vital questions, he held the balance of power throughout the session, and by his vote passed many a law. During the year, that single man was the ruler of the great Empire State, and yet it was in strict accordance with true republican principles. Such cases will not frequently occur; yet they may occur at any time, and in principle they are continually occurring. Another fact fundamental to republicanism, yet fraught with even greater danger to our government, is that instead of a royal family to monopolize by hereditary assumption the highest office in the nation, or hundreds of families of nobility, the heads of which constitute the Upper House of Congress, and fill the most important positions in the army and navy, all educated from childhood with the idea that they were born to rule, and therefore thoroughly trained in all the learning of legislation, every officer of our government is chosen from the people, and, directly or indirectly, by the people. Therefore, as the only security of our republic, the standard of character among the masses must be very high, that men intellectually and morally trustworthy to discharge the highest functions of government may be readily found, and that the voter may feel the power and sacredness of the ballot, not only the priceless prerogatives but also the tremendous responsibilities of a free man. All the institutions and 'fore-shaping influences of a republic, its legislatures, homes, schools, churches, courts, press, ballot, industries, ambitions and customs should concentrate upon this production of strong, noble, full-orbed, self poised, independent men—the only hope of a republic, the best fruit of the highest civilization. Everywhere and always such men are "more precious than fine gold."

No nation can afford to be indifferent to its soils, minerals, timber, machinery, banks, railroads, harbors, exports, imports or tariffs. But to a free people, who at all hazards world preserve their liberty—as an element in the education and happiness of rational and moral beings—banks and tariffs, minerals and machinery are insignificant in comparison with the character of their men. * * * Look at New England's terrible winters, barren soil and want of nearly all great natural resources! And yet Dean Stanley has declared his firm belief that in respect to industry, intelligence, morality, sobriety, cleanliness, taste, comfort, enterprise, prosperity, genius, cultivated minds, rightly-polarized hearts and well-mannered lives, all characteristics of a high civilization, in no other community on the face of the earth could 4,000,000 people be found who were equal to those of our six New England States. Why? Because there, in the estimation of the people, genuine manliness and character have long taken precedence of everything else. There genius creates its own environment, transmuting oxygen and ice into rich red blood and productive brains, raw materials into humming machinery and granite into gold.

But look at some of the choicest spots of the earth, in climate, soil and natural resources, to-day unapproprated by the higher human interests, some of them blotches upon the earth, solely because of the character of their people. Whatever else a republic may underestimate or neglect, she sadly misconceives the conditions of her prosperity, and even of her perpetuity whenever she makes any question paramount to the completest possible manliness of her men and the completest possible womanliness of her women. Her institutions should be fully abreast of this grand idea, and her laws should rigidly enforce it.

* * * * *

To make this idea a controlling power in the land, it must become a governing principle of society. We must take it out of the list of popular abstractions, and apply it in our homes, our intercourse as friends and neighbors, yes, in our churches, not simply as the essence of republicanism, but also as a principle repeatedly affirmed and illustrated by Christ as fundamental to true religion. Oh, the amount of sham and shoddy, of hypocrisy and rottenness, of pinchbeck polish and skin-deep respectability in our social and religious intercourse! It would make us blush, if we were not, beyond blushing. It is all very well to write brilliant essays and gilt-edged poems on "the true nobility," "the higher manliness," and to say occasionally that character is the great end of life; to speak of the "humble cottage," the "frugal board," "the threadbare garment," etc., and to say with Burns, that "a man's a man for 'a that;" but in our social intercourse and in our church, what if we show that our high-sounding phrases are merest cant, and by a sycophantic toadying to money, regardless of the moral character of its possessor, demonstrate that both our religion and our politics are entirely on the surface?

I shall not assume that all the wealthy are sinners and all the poor saints. On the contrary, among the rich I have found some of the noblest men I have ever known and among the poor some of the vilest. But the question is, if you know a mean, low, vulgar, disreputable millionaire—a man reeking with corruption, do you make it a matter of conscience, of religious as well as political creed, to treat him precisely as if he were poor? And if you know a poor man, sound to the core, intelligent, refined, highminded and clean-handed, do you make it a matter of conscience to treat him precisely as if he were rich? Where are the men and women of society, where are the churches that are doing it, or even pretending to do it? That do not deem this a mere sentimentalism, impossible and undesirable to carry out in ordinary life? It is something to preach and pray—but not to practice. And yet we dare call ourselves republicans, and even Christians, when the very essence of republicanism and religion is generous, unconditional recognition of manhood and character, in whatever guise. They who would deem such recognition a condescension or unimportant, are unworthy of citizenship in a republic, or membership in a Christian church.

Yet, disregarding these great truths, we have created a public sentiment that money is incomparably more important than character; that with money, and no matter how little besides, life must be satisfactory, and without it, no matter how much besides, life must be worthless. It is the astounding, brutalising nightmare of our time. From end to end of our land, in all walks of life, we have the money craze, and have lost sight of the fundamental principle of republicanism—that man is vastly more than his environment. We are saying—in a way to tempt many a young man to his ruin—that environment is more than personality and character. In every business there is corruption, the result of having diverted our chief attention from the primary to the secondary concerns of a republic. At present it is not our first business to build character and make men; but to get rich at any hazard; and in ten thousand thousand instances business is prostituted, truth sacrificed and even marriage contracted to that sole end. * * * By this pernicious public sentiment vice is emboldened, virtue discouraged, the springs of society poisoned and the foundations of the republic weakened.

* * * We ought, then, to resent and resist, as inimical to republican institutions, every standard of social and religious recognition save that of personal worth; to punish iniquity in high places as well as low, encourage superior qualities in low as well as high, again bring manliness to the front and dignify labor—the price we pay for everything good this side of heaven, and without which Eden would be a paradise only for the lazy—to beget in the young an intense love of country.

The exemplification of these great principles will never be undertaken as an experiment. Our republic was not founded on an expediency, but on profoundest religious convictions. * * * Just after the Franco-German war, Gambetta, the ablest statesman France has produced in this century, said to Charles Sumner: "Yes we have founded a republic; * * * but of its future I am not sanguine, as true republicanism finds its chief reason for being in human faculties, necessities, possibilities, the very existence of which our infidelity denies." * * * Materialism does not produce the sublime convictions in regard to man from which our republic sprang; nor the incentive for highest human effort. * * * The ballot must be the expression of an intelligent and loyal conscience, a power to degrade or sell which were a crime too dark for a name.

So, with the same sublime faith in God, th. same lofty interest in man, the same vivid consciousness of individual responsibility to our country, which won for our fathers the admiration of the world; to the priceless blessings of liberty, and the great principles our flag symbolizes, with one heart and one mind let us pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Government bonds were active and quotations firm, except for 5s, which are ¼ lower. The feature of to-day's stock market has been the heavy break in Lackawanna, without the development of a single item of news affecting the intrinsic value of the property. The decline is attributed on the street to the action of a single broker, who is generally supposed to control the price of the stock. It is reported that he recently disposed of a large portion of his holding of the stock, and after giving additional orders this morning to sell 5,000 the street, and has not been seen during the remainder of the day. The highest prices for the general list were made at noon after the opening, and the lowest generally a little after 1 o'clock, but three stocks developed decided strength in the afternoon, touching their highest prices in the last hour. Pacific Mail closed with a net gain of ¾ per cent, Central New Jersey up ¾ per cent and Louisville and Nashville ¼ per cent higher. With these exceptions the closing quotations were from ¼ to ¾ per cent lower than the final sales of Saturday, but generally only ¼ to ½ per cent below the highest prices reached to-day.

WILL CLOSE DOWN.

L. J. Rose Announces the Suspension of Operations at the Distillery.

The following circular to vineyardists has been issued by L. J. Rose:

SAN GABRIEL, Cal., July 1st, 1885.

Believing that it may be of some benefit, for your future guidance, I take this mode of informing you that we will not buy grapes this season. I can assure you it is with great regret that I have come to this conclusion, for I know the hardship it will work for you to have to prepare for wine making, and it is only after trying in every possible way to do otherwise that at last I have to give it up for circumstances that are beyond control.

We offer the wine house and distillery in Los Angeles for sale, and will sell it for what it cost us, and at that price it is a bargain, for it was bought at a very low price. It is in perfect order, and arranged to work with economy, and has a capacity for working and storage to work up half of the grapes of Los Angeles valley. It would be desirable property for an association of vineyard owners to buy and to work up their grapes, and would be much cheaper than to build each for himself. Mr. Sanderson, who understands all about it, and is a good brandy and wine maker, would remain if it were desired.

Will also sell empty wine pipes and puncheons at very reasonable prices. All are in number one order, and as good, and ever better than new. Would take them for grapes, if desired, in grapes, delivered at San Gabriel, and at the market price. L. J. ROSE.

A reporter of the TIMES called upon Mr. Sanderson at his residence last evening to gain further particulars concerning the shut-down. Mr. Sanderson stated that it was not due to any general depression in the wine and brandy industry. "Trade has never been better with us," he said, "but the fact is that the co-partnership of Stern & Rose expires in one year. They have now a large stock of wine and brandy which they wish to dispose of before dissolving. It is for this reason and this only that operations are to be suspended at the distillery. Mr. Rose will manufacture all the product of his own vineyards at Sunny Slope, but will not buy grapes from others."

When asked the price at which Mr. Rose would offer the distillery, Mr. Sanderson could not answer. The books of the firm are kept in New York, and the exact cost of the property cannot be learned until a statement is obtained from headquarters.

A FOOT OF FIFTEEN INCHES.

Relic of an Extinct Massachusetts Giant.

George Nolte exhibited in the TIMES office yesterday the sole of an old shoe, which he has kept as a souvenir for many years, and lately received among a number of household effects from the East. The sole originally belonged to a shoe worn by H. D. Kimball, of Littleton, Massachusetts. Kimball, at the age of 41, was eight feet one and a half inches in height and weighed 368 pounds. He was the youngest of twelve children, and, in his earliest years, was quite puny. When about nine years old he had a siege of fever, and upon recovering, began a most extraordinary growth, which left him the giant that he was. Mr. Nolte says that the man was strong in proportion to his size. For many years he worked at teaming—principally engaged in hauling hay. He was intelligently as bright as man of his calling, and accumulated a competency as he attained mature years. As illustrating Kimball's proportions, it is stated that he would sit on top of a flour barrel as naturally as an ordinary man sits on a chair; it was just the right height for him. The giant died about two years ago.

The old shoe-sole which Mr. Nolte exhibited is fifteen inches long and five and a half inches across in the widest part. The shoe was known as No. 21.

Educating the Masses.

We shall popularize our business this week by offering 500 pieces of the celebrated Paisley Scotch ginghams at 15 cents per yard, and to each and every purchaser of 12 yards of ginghams we will present without further charge one of our handsome cloth-bound books. The books are all of the better class of novels, printed on heavy paper and contain from 300 to 600 pages and sells everywhere for $1. The ginghams are the finest styles ever produced, perfectly fast color and all of this season's latest productions and at the price named, the lowest they have ever been sold for. We are educating the masses and selling goods cheaper than any house on this coast. We will also offer our entire stock of best print, twelve yards for $1, and to every purchaser of one dollar's worth of we will without further charge present you with a solid sterling coin silver thimble, and to every purchaser of ten yards of our Calliope brands of bleached muslin for $1 we will sell you a very handsome Oriental lace collar for 25 cents. The collar is worth 75 cents. We also place on sale 100 pieces extra Choice, new style, fast-colored lawns and 50 pieces new style cambric. During the entire week we shall make a special effort to close out large lots of broken lines of hosiery and corsets. Some of our very choicest goods are contained in these broken lines, but only two or three of a kind. We invite special examination of our white goods, laces and embroideries. Also Shetland shawls, parasols, fans and light weight underwear, just the thing for present use. Stocks in every department full and complete. J. T. SHEWARD.

The Caledonian Entertainment.

The musical and literary entertainment given by the Caledonian Club last evening at Y. M. C. A. Hall was a grand success. All the seats were taken and an evening of genuine enjoyment spent in listening to the songs of old Scotland. Mr. James Booth sang the opening piece, "The Old Scotch Songs," and was followed by Mrs. Morrill, who sang "Auld Robin Gray." Miss Wester gave very effectively a recitation, "Archie Dean." Mrs. Petre followed with a vocal solo, "Jessie's Dream," and Mr. J. H. Simpson sang "My Soldier Laddie." The first part of the programme closed with a vocal solo by Miss George entitled "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose." During the interval the audience was entertained with selections on the bag-pipe by Mr. Gregor McDonald. Mr. McDonald received a huge thistle, the Scottish national emblem, at the close of his part of the programme.

Little Miss Maude Reese then sang in a manner which elicited much applause, "Comin' through the Rye." Mr. Stoneman sang the old favorite, "Annie Laurie," Miss Lillian Fellows (a pupil of Mrs. Pierce, of San Francisco) gave "Bonnie Sweet Bessie," and Mr. S. H. Butterfield recited the thrilling poem, "Flix James and Roderick Dhu." With the singing of "The March of the Cameron Men" by Mrs. Petre, the programme closed. All the singers were encored and nearly all responded. The floral gifts were very fine. Before dispersing, the audience joined in "Auld Lang Syne" and while they were leaving, the halls of the Nadeau Block resounded with the pibrochs.

"The San Francisco Lunatic."

Colton Semi-Tropic.

Dr. O'Donnell, the cranky Coroner of San Francisco, has been delivering one of his incendiary, fanatical, anti-Chinese talks to the people of Los Angeles, and was allowed to escape from the city unscathed. The people of California, almost to a man, are opposed to Chinese on general principles, and will hail with delight the day when we shall be rid of their disgusting and contaminating presence, but no man embodying the sentiments expressed by the San Francisco lunatic is a proper person to lead the people in the struggle which is sure to come, sooner or later, to expel them from our shores.

Iron-Sulphur Springs.

This well-established and convenient health resort, which at times this summer has been overcrowded, now presents accommodations for families and others. The beneficial and curative effects of the mineral waters have been amply proved and are acknowledged. The airs are good and the life quiet and restful. A new attraction will be the stage connection soon to be made with the Ostrich Farm, six miles distant, the hotel at the Springs affording a convenient relay house between Los Angeles and Dr. Stuckeley's unique establishment. The farm has now twenty-one full-grown birds and about fifteen half-grown birds, with a lot of younger ones. The farm is pronounced by every one who visits it as a veritable "show." The voracious birds eat fresh-cut alfalfa by the fork-full, "chaw" stones and shells by the half bushel, and kick like Brobdignag when exasperated. A very considerable crop of feathers, amounting in value to some thousands of dollars, has been taken from the older birds since their acclimatization in Los Angeles county. The experiment is a success.

FAN-TAN.

Thirty-Seven Chinese Gamblers Arrested Last Night.

For some time the police have been aware that a tan game was going on on the east side of Nigger Alley, and they have been laying their plans for a raid. At 8:30 last evening, having everything in readiness, a descent was made through the roof. Four tables were running and something over forty Johns were congregated around them. Captain Benedict and Officers Davis, Gowen, McMahon, Wood and Jones had a lively struggle for a few moments to capture the celestials, but finally succeeded, and marched thirty-seven of them down to the police-station, followed by an admiring multitude. All the prisoners furnished bail in the sum of $10 each and were released.

Reed and Reeder.

A series of cases under the titles People vs. Reeder and People vs. Reed is making life a burden to the Justice Courts. Mrs. Reed is the owner of a house occupied by Mr. Reeder. The landlady claims that the tenant is delinquent in his rent, and she tried to evict him by the summary process of removing the doors and windows from the house. Reeder, who claims that he paid his rent by work, put muslin over the openings and held the fort, bringing action against Mrs. Reed for malicious mischief. Mrs. Reed retaliated with an action for detainer, and Reeder responded in turn with a suit for trespass. The last action is still on Justice Ranney's docket. After this is disposed of there remain the charges of embezzlement, libel, arson, mayhem, felo de se and some qui pout which the litigants may have recourse to. But Judge Kohler hopes the cantankerous litigants may be translated to a better country before they proceed to extremes.

Promises to be Warm.

J. K. Mulkey, the special correspondent of the New York Graphic and Louisville Courier-Journal, "burns up" Riverside in a recent letter in the latter paper. He charges that the town is run by a selfish syndicate on principles of fraud, and that despite its protestations it is a poor place for people to settle in. The Riverside Press retorts that Mr. Mulkey is sore because he didn't get subsidized sufficiently by the people of Riverside. The fight is probably not over yet, as Mr. Mulkey promised to prove even more than he charged.

Distressing.

It is a case of Baylac vs. Belli—perhaps nothing new in the economy of nature, for even the small boy who has eaten too many apricots can tell all about it. The particular case in question, however, involves the larceny of $200, which Baylac charges upon Belli. Justice Ranney will administer the pangoric to-morrow.
